NAAC RE-ACCREDITED WITH A+ GRADE (4th CYCLE)

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

SYLLABUS

of the

1st, 2nd, and 3rd Semester of the FYUGP in English

Implemented from 2023-2024

Preamble:

English is the official international language unifying the world. It is used as a means of communication between various people in the world of varied ethnicity, race, religion, or gender. The present-day world scenario is changing rapidly in manifold directions. In this era of globalization communication as well as inter-dependency amongst individuals, societies and nations are rising more and more. This heightens the need for instruments to facilitate this process of mutual understanding and cooperation, and language is undoubtedly is a major one of them. It is necessary to have a language that can be understood globally. Looking at the global scenario at present, there is no doubt that this language is English. The ability to speak, write and understand English is one of the most necessary qualifications to have in the 21st century.

Knowledge of the language of English is also helpful to get quality education. Most of the reputed universities of the world have a basic requirement for proficiency in English laying emphasis on the scores in TOEFL, IELTS, or TOEIC tests. Further, globalization has opened up floodgates of employment opportunities across the world. A command over English can be helpful also in this regard. It is also worth-mentioning that English is the most commonly used language in the media industry, an industry that is blooming in leaps and bounds in recent times. English language skills can provide employment opportunities in this area also including the blooming field of Information Technology.

FYUGP syllabus in English, 2023 has been designed keeping this multi-dimensionality of English in context. The core component of the syllabus is comprised of an in-depth literary study of English. However, following the mandate of the National Education Policy, 2020 a number of skill-based courses have been designed along with in order to make the curricula also a vocational one in nature. It is believed that such an approach would equip the learners with different life-skills. A significant number of courses as generic electives have also been designed to cater to the needs of learners across disciplines. The syllabus has been framed in such a manner that the learners will be equipped with (i) extensive domain knowledge, (ii) 21st century skills (needed at the workplace), (iii) critical thinking, (iv) problem-solving skills, (v) leadership skills, (vi) creative acumen, and (vii) cutting-edge research skills. These skills will be crucial for the holistic development of the learners, and keeping them up to speed with the demands of a highly competitive knowledge economy of the 21st century.

Introduction:

The FYUGP English syllabus offers a good number of courses under Major, Minor, Generic Elective, Skill Enhancement, and Research components. Keeping in view the mandate of the National Education Policy,

Several courses have been designed that would develop a keen interest in English Studies for the learners from other disciplines also. So far as the content of the syllabus is concerned the main body will primarily be dealing with English Literary Studies throughout the eight semesters enabling the learners with comprehensive knowledge on the historical, political, social, literary dimensions of British Literature, Indian Writing in English, American Literature, European Literature, and New Literatures across genres. Besides, a number of courses have also designed in order to enable the learners to acquire necessary skill-sets. While designing this syllabus it is kept in mind that education should become a means to generate employability as well as an inspiration in itself to be self-reliant, self-confident and, above all, to be a human resource in the true sense of the term. There is also an attempt in the syllabus to develop critical thinking in the learners. The final year of the four-year undergraduate programme will be research-centric. This will enable the learners having aspirations for research after completing their undergraduate course in English.

Aims of the Four Year Under-Graduate Programme (FYUP) in English:

The aims of the Four Year Under-Graduate Programme (FYUP) in English are:

1. To give the learners an idea of the historical, political, social, and cultural context of different periods of British Literature
2. To help the learners explore English literatures and translated texts from various cultural spaces
3. To develop in the learners the ability to observe, understand and interpret literary texts from different points of view
4. To develop critical thinking in the learners
5. To equip the learners with soft skills, leadership quality and so forth

Graduate And Generic Attributes:

Graduate attributes are inclusive of the disciplinary knowledge related to a particular discipline and generic attributes that the graduates of all the disciplines of study should acquire and demonstrate. Graduate attributes of the FYUP in English are:

Disciplinary Knowledge: The graduates are expected to be able to have a comprehensive knowledge and understanding of the discipline of English. It is expected that the emphasis on the historical development of English literature worldwide represented by the texts chosen from various genres would enable the graduates to develop a comprehensive knowledge of the various contexts related to those texts. Through these representative works they would be able to understand the interconnectedness between the larger socio-political milieu and their literary representation.

Critical Thinking: The graduates in English are expected to develop critical thinking ability through a philosophical approach in reading the texts and applying them in the analysis of real-life situations.

Research-related Skills: The graduates are expected to grow in themselves a mindset for research. They should have the basic skills to conduct research by identifying a research problem, exploring the gaps in the existing scholarship of a particular area, and application of theoretical frameworks in exploring different areas of interdisciplinary research.

Reflective Thinking and Problem Solving: The emphasis on skill-based learning would enable the graduates to understand and use their learning and skills in real life situations and challenges.

Communication Skills: The graduates in English should have the ability to have an effective communication skill and should be able to demonstrate their thoughts and expressions with clarity.

Digital Learning and Competence: The graduates should be able to be equipped with digital learning. The use of ICT tools in classroom teaching and the emphasis on digital literacy particularly in the skill-based courses are expected to help the graduates to attain proficiency in the domain that would also help them prepare to cope themselves up with the changing scenario of the world.

Programme Learning Outcome (PLO):

An undergraduate student of English should be able to:

PLO 1. Develop an understanding of the major concepts, theoretical perspectives and recent areas of studies in English literature.

PLO 2. Use critical thinking ability in both understanding a text and in analyzing real lifestuations.

PLO 3. Develop a critical approach towards the socio-political and cultural milieu of a society through the study of literary texts

PLO 4. Develop effective communicative skills in and outside the classroom

PLO 5. Demonstrate professional competencies such as digital learning, creative writing, translation.

PLO 6. Demonstrate competencies required for preparing one for the prospects of diverse professions.

PLO 7. Demonstrate competencies in learning to update knowledge and practice targeted to improve professional knowledge and practice
